Regarding: Letter of Support for Sohail Moiz
Alien Registration Number (A-Number): A-077669016
Current Detention Facility: Montgomery County
Processing Center

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing this letter to express my unwavering support for Sohail Moiz, who is currently being held on immigration detention following a traffic stop for a minor equipment issue. As a nurse who has dedicated the last 7 to 8 years working for UTMB-CMC within the Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ), I have seen firsthand what true threats to society look like. Sohail does not belong in that category. He is a deeply good, selfless man, the backbone of our family, and a vital pillar of support for my three sons, ages 19, 18, and 16.

Sohail came into our lives in late 2016/early 2017 when my children were just 9, 8, and 6 years old. Their biological father was entirely absent. Recognizing the void in their lives, Sohail stepped up and chose to become the father he never had to be. When our children received no financial help from their biological father, Sohail stepped in and paid for sports and any activities, school clothes, food, not only necessities but anything the 3 boys have ever wanted or needed. Due to the grueling demands, night shifts, and split shifts required by my nursing career, I was frequently unable to attend daytime school functions. Sohail stepped into the gap. He attended every single parent-student luncheon. Before Sohail entered their lives, my young sons were severely bullied at school for not having a father. Just by showing up consistently, being a visible male role model, and giving them emotional security, Sohail stepping up as a father to them stopped that bullying completely.

Sohail did all of this despite surviving severe childhood trauma. As a young child, he witnessed his mother commit suicide. He tried desperately to wake his father for help, but it was too late. His father later remarried and brought Sohail to the United States. Tragically, while his father was actively pursuing U.S. citizenship for young Sohail, he was killed in a violent robbery. Left a young orphan in a foreign country, no guardian was there to follow up on Sohail's legal status. His citizenship process fell through the cracks of a broken system, leading directly to the detention center where he is held today.

Despite being dealt a hand of absolute tragedy, Sohail chose to become a protector and provider. Because of his daily diligence, my children have achieved extraordinary academic success that would have been impossible without him. While I worked odd healthcare hours, Sohail would wake up early, cook breakfast or take the boys out to eat, and get them safely to school. He was there to meet them at the bus (if he didn't pick them up just because they didn't want to ride the bus), handle their homework, and manage our household, all while maintaining his own job and putting the children first.

The fruits of his dedication speak for themselves:

- My oldest son, Roman Jr. (19): He was able to graduate and start college early because of the stable environment Sohail provided. He is now in an honors college in North Carolina, Majoring in Computer Science and Minor in both Math and Japanese. Roman Jr. has put a pause on his minor in Japanese due to employment, class schedule overload and financial hardships. When Roman Jr. recently faced financial hardships and considered taking a gap semester, Sohail adamantly refused to let him compromise his education, stating:
"Absolutely not, I will provide him with whatever he needs to make sure that he can continue college and pursue his degree."
- My second son, Reed (18): Reed was heavily struggling with the pressures of higher education. Sohail took it upon himself to personally guide, mentor, and support him through his difficulties. Today, Reed is taking his pre-med courses at Stephen F. Austin State University (SFA) with the goal of transferring to medical school to earn his MD.
- My youngest son (16): Despite struggling with grades at school and having to be put on medications from a psychiatrist, following the standard of academic excellence Sohail fostered, my youngest is now currently taking college courses at Lamar State College Orange (LSCO) before his high school classes. He is on track to graduate high school with an associate college degree already completed.

Due to two of my children not having a vehicle, Sohail gave his only way of transportation so that whichever one of our children needed the car would have it. This is just one example of how much Sohail has put the children first.

Sohail is the kind of person who would give the shirt off his back to anyone in need. His impact stretches beyond our home; he is regularly involved in community service and consistently helps the unhoused on the streets.

Deporting Sohail to a country he does not know—and lives in fear of—serves no benefit to anyone. It would permanently fracture our family, derail the bright medical and academic futures of three young American citizens, and deprive our community of a genuinely good man. I respectfully implore you to take his extraordinary, tragic circumstances into consideration. Please look beyond the fact that a violent crime took his father away before his citizenship could be finalized. I ask that you show discretion, grant him relief from deportation, and return him to the family that completely depends on him.

Thank you for your time, consideration, and compassion.

Sincerely,

Britney Beaumont
